"I wish to be exonorated from all blame or uspicion. Do you think it a discredit to yield o the temptation to devour your fellow man?" queried Connell. "Don't you think it hard or one to resist this temptation and then not to et credit for it?"

'Yes.'
'Well, that's just my position,'' said Connell.
'Then you were tempted?'' asked the rerater you was temperature.

"Yes, the opportunity presented—the terrible craving was there, and I resisted."

"How about the others?"

"I have nothing to say about others. I only had my own morals to look after."

Connell, in conclusion, said that the dead as well as the living deserved justice, and that the Government owed it to them to take action and clear up the mystery, as well as to redress wrongs, if any such existed, and that he was ready to talk freely and unreservedly when that time came.

olano Officers Capture a Brace of Des Copyright, 1887, by the California Associated Press. Suisun, August 15th.—For two days past sev-ral burglaries were committed in this town and eral burglaries were committed in this town and vicinity, the work evidently being done by experts. To day some farmers came to town and reported seeing two well dressed strangers about their barns, one having a bundle wrapped with a silk hankerchief. This afternoon Thomas Melbourne notified Under sheriff Perkins and Constable Geo. Kinloch that he met the men making for Vanden's station, six miles east of this place. The officers immediately gave pursuit, and overtook the men near the station. Perkins commanded them to halt, but they started to run. Both officers jumped from their burgy.

o run. Both officers jumped from their buggy and Perkins fired at them. They immediately OPENED FIRE ON THE OFFICERS. Emptying two five-shooters at them, and the officers returning their fire shot for shot. After both had exhausted all their shots, they started to run. Kinloch reloaded his pistol and gave chase after them. Perkins took across-tots, running into Captain Brooks' house and getting a Winchester rifle. From here he came out in the field, heading them off and firing at them. The second shot from the rifle brought the smaller one to bay, and he FELL TO THE GROUND AS IF WOUNDED. The officers let him remain, and followed the larger man, who took refuge in a dry creek. Persins ran up to him and made him surrender by throwing up his hands, and Kinloch hand-cuffed him. The smaller man lay still until the officers went to him and secured him. They were chained together, brought to town and lodged in the county jail. The bundle of plunder and everything they had about them was thrown away in the run, except one pistol, a skeleton key and about $10 in money. The officers think they can find the thrown-away plunder in the morning. The men are well dressed, and are to all appearances skillful operators in their nefarious calling. The officers deserve great praise for their plueky fight. The officers let him remain, and followed the Shropshire Down Sheep, evidences of the Murder of a Stranger in

REDWOOD CITY, August 15th.—Last Saturday Coroner Ross was notified that the body of a man was seen on the beach near San Mateo. The body was found under a bluff on the south shore of Big Coyote Island. It was brought to this place and an autopsy held this atternoon, which disclosed a bullet in the brain. A close examination of the ground near where the c.rpse lay shows no signs of a struggle, though several dark spots closely resembling blood-stains were found on the rocks on the side of the bluff. The absence of any firearm dispels the suicide theory. It is thought the man, was shot and dragged to the bluff and thrown off, striking on the projecting rocks and causing the blood-stains. The deed could not have been done many hours previously, as the wound in the head was bleeding freely when the body was discovered. The coat pockets were turned inside out, as if the man had been robbed when killed. Nothing was found by which it could be identified. It was dressed in a neat suit of dark blue clothes, shirt of the same color, hair and moustache gray, height about five feet ten inches, and of rather heavy build. The features are apparently those of a Frenchman. Photographs of the body have been taken. It was buried to-day. The Coroner's jury will render a verdict after a more searching investigation has been made of the vicinity of where the body was found. This sent him to Germany as Minister, he was the victim of a blunder in the editorial work of the State Department, which caused the publication of a very frankly-worded confidential dispatch among the ordinary Consular corresponder ence from the monthly report. This was copied into the North German Gazette, which in its own ignorance of American usage and its anxiety to do something disagreeable to our representative, assailed Sargent for his discouttesy to the Imperial Government, and in conducting an editorial correspondence with a newspaper. The dispatch in question unfortunately exposed the secret of the German interdiction of American pork and proved the hollowness of Bismarck's pretense that we were introducing diseased pork into Germany, by showing not only that our pork was not diseased, but that German pork itself was accountable for all the damage claimed. Colorow has asked that he be given fifteen days to take his wounded Indians back to the Uintah Agency. This request, however, is believed by some to have been refused, as it would give him more time to receive reinfarcements from other renegade bands who are roaming over the country. Sullivan's judgment on bails and strikes was ludi-rous, displaying the grossest incompetency. His decisions on bases in several cases were sheer robbery, and the home team suffered in each instance. He was escorted off the ground by the Sergeant of Police and Captain Kelly, surrounded by an excited and indignant crowd. The game was close, the Bostons leading in the batting and also the fielding. Ewing and O'Rourke caught a brilliant game. Conver, Richardson and Johnson led in the batting. The last-named electrified the spectators by his successful and bold sprinting in the seventh. that with a largely increased output every year prices grow more satisfactory.

"This is accounted for by the fact that the better classes of fruits are grown, and the e are in great demand by canners and for Eastern shipments. It is now possible for people of limited means, and living several thousands of miles from us, to get our luscious fruits for a price not much beyond what is paid here. I confidently believe the time is not far distant when we will ship green fruits to Europe. Another feature of the fruit business in this State is the vast quantity of fruits that are dried. No conception can be formed of the magnitude of the drying operations, and which are yearly increasing. In every respect the fruit interests of the State are prospectors, and the outlook could hardly be brighter. It we can succeed in checking the ravages of the peets, this State is bound to become the orchard for the world."

Incidents of Camp Life

SANTA CRUZ, August 15, 1887 .- Here we ascertained that this individual was not one of the party. A regiment going into camp without a Colonel did not strike the boys as just the proper thing, and the train was stopped at Swingle's long enough to let the party. They are based upon the universal experience reported from all other prisons; upon the best established principles of penological science, and upon the broad and stable foundations of common sense.

of the party. A regiment going into camp without a Colonel did not strike the boys as just the proper thing, and the train was stopped at Swingle's long enough to let the commanding officer. From Swingle's the train sped along at a lively rate, arriving in Santa Cruz a few minutes before seven. Soon after leaving Sacramento, the men began to spread their blankets upon the bunks for a good night's sleep but to speak truthfully, it can hardly be said that a single individual had an hour of undisturbed rest. From the time the train started until it arrived at Santa Cruz there was a continuous buzz of excitement. When the train pulled into the depot at Santa Cruz, the men were the depot at Santa Cruz, the men were said to have based his conclusion upon the difference in methods of agriculture, products, people, etc. That gentleman is a far-seeing man, and not given to incautious forecasting. Nevertheless, while respecting his judgment highly, we cannot admit the soundness of his conclusions in this case.

In this case, After a pleasant tramp of a mile we reached the entrance of the camp, and as we marched through the gate we were greeted with cheers by the regulars and a large number of people of Santa Cruz. The regiment was drawn up in line by Colonel Guthrie, and Adjutant Wiseman gave the necessary order for detailing the guard. This done, the companies the united States.

PROPOSED REDUCTION OF FARES.—The Bulletin of last evening says: Railroad Commissioner Abbott has sent to the railroad authorities a letter in which he notifies them that he intends to propose a schedule of lower passenger rates. In it he says: "Not only do the rights and interests of our citizens demand as great a re-duction as will admit of a fair and just re-muneration to the carrier for his labor and capital invested, but the advantages to be derived from the early settlement and cultivation of the large and sparsely inhabited area of our State would seem to suggest that the lowest profitable rates would not only benefit the community at large, but would result in materially increased profits to the railroad companies. The fact that your company now, in many instances, is charging much less than the maximum rate fixed by the Board of Railroad Commissioners, appears to bear out the above conclusions. My judgment is that a reducion of the maximum rates charged from 4 and 6 cents per mile to 3 and 5 cents per mile, or in other words a substantial reduction of about 25 per cent. on a majority of the passenger fares in the State, would not Ely's Cream Balm was recommended Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me by my druggist as a preventive to Hay Fever. Have been using it as directed since the 9th of August, and have found it a specific for that much dreaded and loathsome disease. For ten years or more I have been a great sufferer each year, from August 9th till frost, and have tried many alleged rem-dies for its cure, but Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventive I have ever found. Senator Stanford's Passion for Horses Senator Stanford's only passion is for ne horses, and this taste he has gratified on his estate at Palo Alto in the heart of the Santa Clara valley. There he has a large number of fine thoroughbred horses, and when he goes down to this country home it is his pleasure to sit in a large chair in the center of a ring and see his favorite young flyers brought out for trial. It was while watching one of these fast trotters-an animal which had the enor mous stride of twenty-three feet-that the millionaire conceived the idea that in some part of his course the horse must entirely clear the ground and have all four feet in the air. So he decided to have his horses photographed while in motion. He secured the services of a skillful photographer named Muybridge, and he arranged an ingenious system of cameras worked by electricity by which an instantaneous view of the animal was given as he passed the home line. About $40,000 were speni on these experiments; but they overthrew all previous notions on the subject, and the work which Stanford had written and published, entitled "The Horse in Mo tion," is a valuable contribution to science. Senator Stanford has also done more than any one else to improve the breed of horses in California, and to demonstrate that the limate of that State is superior to Kentucky for the breeding of swift trotting and running stock.—G. osmopolitan. A Thrilling Ride.

The Marysville Democrat says: As the Downieville stage was going down the Mountain House grade several days ago, the eight passengers on board had an experience long to be remembered. The reins attached to the horses were scorched at the Camptonville fire, but were considered safe. In going down the steep grade, which is six miles long, the rein to one of the wheel horses broke. A passenger on the front seat with the driver, Walter Finchely, be-came excited and made a grab for the lines. This started the horses on a dead run down the grade, and the driver having lost control of the animals, knew that something must be done very quickly. He glanced down the road some distance, and saw John Yore and family, of Downieville, coming up the bill in a light wagon. At this critical moment Finchely whipped out his revolver, and was just in the act of shooting down one of his "wheelers," when he spied a stump on the side of the oad just ahead. Holding his pistol ready for use in case of necessity, he turned the leaders" in a direct line with the stump. The head horses plunged over the stump but one of the rear horses ran square int it, tearing his breast open, but bringing the outfit to a standstill, and throwing the come a place of considerable importance. New buildings are going up on both sides of the railroad, and there is a decidedly business air about the place. The location is splendid, the climate invigorating and the scenery grand. The new passenger depot and the railroad eating house will shortly be completed. It is a magnificent building, and its size and substantial character is indicative of the great faith the ailroad company has in the future of the place. A. E. Doney is erecting a new two-story building and will have it completed shortly. The ground floor is to be used for his store, his present quarters not being large enough to accommodate his growing business. Town lots continue to find purchasers, and we know of no better invest-ment in the county. We miss our guess if

Gentlemen—For two years I had a severe case of eczema. I used tar soaps, sulphur soaps, and various other remedies, and was prescribed for by numbers of physicians, but found no relief. At last I determined to try the S. S. S. remedy, and seven or eight bottles have thoroughly relieved me, and you can use this certificate in any manner you wish. Hugo Hasskerl.
